DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claims 1-6, 8-17 and 19 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by JP09105958 (hereinafter '958).

'958 discloses in figures 1-10, a display apparatus including a display device for displaying an image or a picture and a viewing angle controlling unit arranged over said display device, said viewing angle controlling unit comprising:

- A pair of substrates (2,3), each comprising at least an electrode (4,5) and an alignment film (6,7), facing each other such that said alignment films are opposite to each other;
- A liquid crystal layer (8) sandwiched between said pair of substrates; and
- A pair of polarized plates (9,10) arranged outside said pair of substrates sandwiching said liquid crystal layer;
- Where rubbing directions of the respective alignment films of said pair of substrates are substantially parallel to each other (figure 10).

As to claims 2-5, the pair of polarized plates are arranged in a cross/parallel Nichols way (figure 3, 13).

As to claim 6, it would be inherent that there would be a power source to power the disclosed electrodes.

As to claim 8, the optical axis is an absorption or transparent axis.

As to claim 9, the device is a light emitting device.

As to claim 10, viewing angles may be configured (figures 7-8 and 11-12).

As to claim 11, the device is a liquid crystal device.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 7 and 18 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over '958 as applied to claims above.

'958 discloses the display device as claimed except for a retardation value of a liquid crystal layer being within 200nm to 1000nm. It is respectfully noted that such a retardation value could be commonly selected from a known variety of liquid crystal materials known in the art.

It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to use a liquid crystal layer having the retardation value range as claimed since it has been held that where the general conditions of a claim are disclosed in the prior art, discovering the optimum or workable ranges involves only routine skill in the art and would have at least have been obvious to try. In re Aller, 105 USPQ 233.

Conclusion

5. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

- a. United States Patent Application Publication 20060250338.
- b. United States Patent Number 4,106,858.
- c. United States Patent Number 5,608,556.
